OFFICE OF THE PRESIDENT

(812) 232-6311

December 14, 1973

Tonight marks a major milestone in Indiana State's long history in the service of the people of this state. In opening the Hulman Civic-University Center, we inaugurate a great facility designed for a continuous variety of presentations from the broad canvas of American and world cultures. The educational concerns of a modern university are extensive and the talented artists, athletes, actors, musicians, speakers and entertainers who appear here in the years ahead can greatly enlarge and enrich the lives of our students and those in the wide community we serve. In that spirit and with that purpose we welcome you to what we hope is the first of many happy and rewarding hours in the new Hulman Center.

This building is the fulfillment of a hope long held by Terre Haute's leading citizen, Tony Hulman, who with his wife, Mary Fendrich Hulman, gave Indiana State over $2,500,000 for its construction. No words can express adequately our indebtedness to Mr. and Mrs. Hulman. Their gift was an act of faith and confidence in Indiana State and Terre Haute.

Indiana State's trustees, faculty, staff, alumni and friends, including the business, civic and industrial community of the Wabash Valley, have joined the Hulmans in support of this undertaking - the largest in the University's history. They have our special thanks for their financial and moral support.

Present and future generations of Indiana State students have a major share in making this building possible through the University's fee structure. We hope the activities held here will meet their expectations and we thank them for their contributions, not only to this building but to so many facets of University life.

Indiana State University presents the Hulman Civic-University Center to you with great pride and high expectations.

FACTS ABOUT

THE SITE: November, 1971.

DIGNITARIES broke ground on Dec. 17, 1971.

FOR A WHILE Hulman Center was a hole in the ground and a bit of concrete.

STRUCTURAL DEVELOPMENT came in the spring of 1972.

How many does Hulman Center seat? Capacity of Hulman Center for basketball is listed at 10,020. For a concert in-the-round about 11,000 persons can be seated. There also is a theater-type wedge which will seat more than 3,000.

How much did it cost to construct Hulman Center? Including land acquisition, this building cost $10-million. Worth of the land--donated by Terre Haute businessman Anton Hulman Jr.,--was $2.5 million. Citizens of the Wabash Valley contributed $1.5 million and civic bonds and student fees helped raise the remaining $6-million.

Was Hulman Center construction completed on schedule? When ground was broken for construction on Dec. 17, 1971 builders said the facility would be complete in two years. Well, they made it with three days to spare--as the Sycamores, Boilers and Sooners take to court this weekend.

Speaking of the court, what is it? Hulman Center's basketball court is a synthetic surface (Tartan), which measures 5/8 of an inch thick. It is rubberized and, therefore, will provide plenty of spring for rebounding. (It is one of two in Terre Haute, since Rose-Hulman Institute also has Tartan.) The basketball court was painted onto the surface last Saturday and Sunday and the color is royal blue.

What are some facts about the seats themselves? In moving from the ISU Arena (which seated some 4,600 on bleacher-type seats) to Hulman Center, there are now 10,020 chair-back theater-type seats. Each seat has a back, and seat width is 22 inches--which is opposed to 18 inches in a bleacher area.

What are some other statistics on the building? Of course, the playing surface is below ground level. (This area is also called the "activity" level.) Upon entering the building, fans will be 15 rows from the playing surface and 14 rows from the top. From the basketball floor to the structural girders is 79 feet, and it's another 15 feet to the roof.

What other sorts of events are planned for Hulman Center in the next few months? In addition to 11 more Sycamore basketball games here this season, other scheduled events include: basketball (Pacers vs. Denver, Feb. 16; first round, NCAA Mideast regional, March 9; Indiana high school regional, March 9), Disney On Parade, professional wrestling, a circus, a horse show, roller derby, the Harlem Globetrotters, and several concerts. There also are various banquets, conventions and meetings scheduled here.

How were the scoreboards installed? The scoreboards on the northeast and southwest walls were installed several weeks ago by the use of a 30-ton crane, which was brought into the building. Including the Hillman Jewelers and Terre Haute First National Bank advertising panels, the scoreboard measures 48 feet wide and eight feet deep. It is a computerized instrument and is operated from courtside.

How about the press box accommodations? Hulman Center's pressbox, located atop the west stands, has three levels. The first is for working sportswriters and the Sycamore statistics crew, and it will comfortably seat 35. The second level is for radio and can handle as many as eight stations. It also houses the building's lighting and sound systems. The third level basically is for television cameras--as fans at the Purdue game will notice. (The Sycamore-Riveter contest is being televised by WTTV--and the Purdue network--as well as by WTHI-TV.)

THE ROOF and walls came next in January, 1973.

EXTERIOR somewhat developed, workmen concentrated on the interior last summer.

THE SYCAMORES' final game in the ISU Arena was Dec. 3--an 85-70 triumph over Southwest Missouri State.

FINAL TOUCHES on Hulman Center's Tartan surface were made last week before the Sycamores' court was painted and permanently sealed.

INDIANA STATE enters the biggest basketball weekend in the school's history with a 1-2 record, having lost on the road to Eastern Kentucky (86-82) and Butler (71-62) while winning a homecourt decision from Southwest Missouri State (85-70) in the last game played in the ISU Arena.

The Sycamores need victories--and they're in the middle of a tough series of opponents. After facing the standout teams from Purdue and Oklahoma this weekend, they travel to nationally ranked Long Beach State next Saturday and open against powerful Florida State in the Bear Classic at Macon, Ga., Dec. 27.

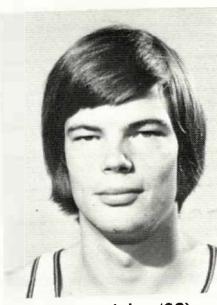

ISU began the season on an optimistic note, since seven of the top eight players returning from last year's 16-10 team were joined by some promising newcomers.

The Sycamores did put it together for one half, however, outscoring SMS 50-24 in the final 20 minutes of that game, showed signs of being a good team in each of the other games.

PURDUE surprised everyone in the Big 10 except themselves last season when they compiled a 15-9 record and finished third in the conference in their first year under Coach Fred Schaus.

Now Schaus has three starters back to go with several other lettermen and one of the best freshman groups in the nation, and the Boilermakers don't figure to surprise anyone this year--everyone knows they're going to be tough.

The Boilermakers split their first four games, defeating Southern Illinois-Edwardsville (117-71) and St. Joseph's (Ind) (103-81) before losing a pair of overtime games to Clemson (81-80) and Miami of Ohio (86-85). They played Missouri at home Tuesday night.

After four games Purdue's leading scorer was 6-11 John Garrett, a junior averaging 26.5 points per game while shooting player at least three inches smaller than he is.

Number two scorer has been Frank Kendrick, a 6-6 senior forward who was unstoppable against the Sycamores last year with 26 points in 27 minutes. He's averaging 18.5 so far this year, and after four games was the Riveters' leading rebounder.

The third returning starter is 6-2 guard Bruce Parkinson, who moved into the starting lineup as a freshman last year and piled up assists by the dozen. He can also score, and is probably one of the Midwest's better guards already.

Jerry Nichols, a 6-6 stringbean, can play either forward or guard and will shoot the eyes out of the basket from either position. He was averaging 11 points per game after four games and is likely to be a starting forward this weekend.

Dave Luke, a quick 6-1 guard who has won two varsity letters, is after four contests, and 6-10 freshman Tom Scheffler.

Purdue leads the series between the two schools 20-1, and since the Sycamore victory in December of 1970 the Boilermakers have twice blown ISU out of Mackey Arena in West Lafayette (106-84 and 94-70 last year).

The visitors have size, speed and a lot of depth. At times Friday they could field a lineup of Parkinson (6-2), Nichols (6-6), Scheffler (6-10) and Garrett (6-11)--quite a test of the defensive abilities of the smaller Sycamores.

There are a lot of other good basketball players on the Purdue roster too. A pair of almost-local players, guard Mike Steele and center Robin McCarter of Robinson, Ill., could see action, available at guard are senior Tom Gilbert, a former Indiana All-Star, and freshman Pat Manahan, Indiana's leading prep scorer last winter, and 6-7 freshman Gerald Thomas and seven-footer Dan McDermott are available up front. Thomas starred with Connersville's 1972 Indiana state champs and defended well against All-America Wesley Cox in last winter's Indiana-Kentucky All-Star series.

OKLAHOMA already knows it has the best basketball player in the Big Eight, and more than one person (including ISU head coach Gordon Stauffer) feels the Sooners also have the best basketball team in that league.

The player is Alvan Adams, Big Eight Player of the Year as a freshman last year, and he's no stranger to the Sycamores. He made his Oklahoma debut against ISU last year and scored 34 points while pulling down 28 rebounds in one of the most spectacular one-man devastations the Sycamores have ever faced.

Adams brings a 15.3 scoring average and an 11.5 rebound average into Saturday night's game for a team that has a 3-1 record against tough competition.

Plains Classic. Their lone loss was a home game, a 66-64 decision to nationally ranked Jacksonville in the final seconds.

Herb Williams, a 6-4 transfer from Paducah (Ky.) Junior College, is OU's leading scorer with a 16-point average while guard Mike McCurdy has averaged 10.3 per game while shooting 65 per cent from the field.

Bob Pritchard, who scored 14 points against the Sycamores last year, is scheduled to be the other starting forward at 6-6, while senior guard Lee Gilbert will direct the team again. Available for frontline relief are 6-9 Tom Holland, averaging nine points per game (he scored 16 against ISU last year) and 6-9 Ted Evans, a two-year regular.

job done.

Led by Al Armstrong, Rick Peckinpaugh and Lonnie Abram, ISU twice mounted eight-point leads in the first half. The Sooners rallied for a 44-38 intermission lead, then put together 10 straight points early in the second half to put the game out of reach. They led by as many as 18 points before ISU cut the final margin of 92-84.

Oklahoma's coaching situation has undergone a few changes since that meeting. John MacLeod, who coached the Sooners a year ago, is currently coaching at Phoenix Suns of the National Basketball Association.

Lester Lane was hired as MacLeod's replacement, but died of a tragic heart attack Sept. 5. Joe Ramsey, a former All-America player at Southern Illinois and one of MacLeod's assistants last year, was hired Sept. 20 as Oklahoma's third head coach in less than a year.

Ramsey admitted excitement about the Sooners prior to the beginning of the season, and it's unlikely he's changed his mind yet. Size and depth are considered the Oklahoma strengths, while youth and a lack of quickness in some areas are listed as Sooner weaknesses.

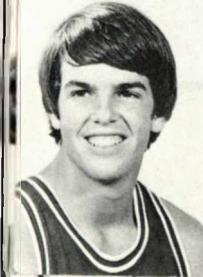

Oklahoma meets Central State (Okla.) at home next Saturday, then enters the annual Big Eight holiday tournament at Kansas City.

A Real 'Laffer'

Victory Revisited!

Can it happen again? That's what Indiana State University basketball fans are asking as Purdue University pays its first varsity basketball visit to Terre Haute this weekend.

The Sycamores upset the Boilermakers, who were on their way to an 18-7 season, in December of 1970, a nail-biting 84-82 victory that set off one of the wilder celebrations ever seen on the ISU campus.

Purdue's lineup that year included frontliners George Faerber, Bob Ford and William Franklin, all eventual professional draft choices, flashy guard Larry Weatherford and sophomore Dennis Gamauf. ISU countered with mini-forwards Bob Barker (6-4) and George Pillow (6-2), guards Dan Bush and Howard Williams and centers Paul Siebenmorgen and Joe Williams (both 6-7).

The game was always close, but when Pillow fouled out in the waning minutes the ISU outlook was bleaker. But Larry Lamb, Pillow's sub, sank a crucial free throw in the last seconds to give the Sycamores a two-point lead and Purdue missed. Howard Williams rebounded and dribbled away the final seconds.

Back in Terre Haute people were going crazy. Campus celebrations lasted for hours, with thousands of fans still lining the streets when the team bus pulled into the Arena. Can it happen again? If it does, there'll be some parties Friday that won't break up until time for the Oklahoma game Saturday night.

Gordon Stauffer isn't too emotional! Here he expresses exhortation (above) and satisfaction (below) in beating Purdue.

Congratulations ISU and City of Terre Haute
